New Global Consulting Group Provides Dramatic and Diverse Capabilities

A new network of outstanding global consulting practices, Summit Global Network™ (SGN), is providing outstanding results to hundreds of clients in dozens of countries. Founder Alan Weiss, PhD notes, “We’ve formed a coalition of longstanding, highly respected consulting firms with offices in over a dozen countries to bring the best practices of the entire body to bear on the individual client needs of any one member.”

Qualifications for membership include work with outstanding organizations willing to provide testimonials and endorsements; unique intellectual property and thought leadership; global applicability of approaches; and innovative, growth-oriented strategies. The average tenure of the 22 member firms is 18.5 years in business; over 90 books have been written by the principals and published; over 1,500 clients have been helped, including a range from Fortune 25 to small businesses, governmental agencies, and nonprofits.
